Additional Terms and Conditions

Shanghai-Hong Kong & Shenzhen-Hong Kong Connect Trading

This Shanghai-Hong Kong and Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect Trading Agreement is supplemental to the Securities Client Agreement entered into by GHSL and the Client to which this Shanghai-Hong Kong and Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect Trading Agreement is annexed whereby the Client is allowed to conduct trading of China Connect Securities through China Connect and GHSL agrees to provide such trading services to the Client. Where any conflict arises between the Securities Client Agreement and the provisions of this Shanghai-Hong Kong and Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect Trading Agreement, the provisions of the latter shall prevail.

Important Notes

The following describes some of significant aspects of trading the Shanghai Stock Exchange (“SSE”) and/or Shenzhen Stock Exchange (“SZSE”) securities via Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect and/or Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect (collectively referred to as “China Connect”) through GHSL.

Compliance with Applicable Laws and Rules

The Client must observe relevant laws and regulations of Mainland China and Hong Kong as well as the rules of the exchanges. The Client must accept and agree the aforesaid and the risks related to China Connect, including but not limited to being liable or responsible for breaching the SSE Listing Rules, SSE Rules, SZSE Listing Rules, SZSE Rules and other applicable laws and regulations before giving instructions. Some of these rules are referred to below; detailed information on trading via China Connect can be referred to on HKEX or GHSL website.

1. Day Trading is Not Permitted

The Client is not allowed to carry out day trading through China Connect. A shares bought on trade day (T-day) can only be sold on or after T+1 day.

2. OTC Trading is Not Permitted

All trading must be conducted on SSE and or SZSE, i.e. no over-the-counter (“OTC”) or manual trades are allowed.

3. Naked Short Selling is Not Permitted

The Client must have shares transferred to GHSL’s corresponding CCASS account before the commencement of trading on a trading day if he intends to sell the shares during a trading day. If the Client does not have sufficient shares in his account to cover a proposed share order GHSL may in its absolute discretions reject the Clients sell order. Any risk, loss or cost resulting from the non-compliance of this rule shall be borne by the Client.

4. Stock and Money Settlement Arrangement

For SSE and SZSE shares trading, stock settlement will be conducted on T-day, while money (including the transaction amount as well as the related fees and levies) will settle on T+1 day. The Client should ensure the Client has sufficient RMB in the Client’s account for settlement.

5. GHSL’s Right to Cancel Client Orders

GHSL may, in its absolute discretion, refuse to execute any order made by the Client without prior notice, if (for example and without limitation) such order is not compliant with any rules, laws, or regulations or if GHSL is required by the SEHK, SSE, SZSE or any other China Connect Authority to reject orders from the Client. GHSL may further cancel the Client’s orders in case of contingencies such as the hoisting of Typhoon Signal No 8 or any other incident beyond the control of GHSL which may affect order placing or settlement of the transaction.

6. Quota Restrictions

Purchases of SSE and or SZSE securities through China Connect are subject to certain daily quota controls. As a result, there is no assurance that a buy order can be successfully placed through China Connect.

7. Difference in trading day and trading hours

China Connect allows trading only on the days when both Hong Kong and the respective Mainland Chinese markets are open for trading, and banking service are available in both markets on the corresponding settlement days. The Client should also note that A shares trading will follow the trading hours of the Exchange where it is listed.

8. Foreign Shareholding Restriction

Under Mainland China laws, there is a limit to how many shares a single foreign investor is permitted to hold in a single Mainland China listed company. GHSL has the right to force-sell the Client's shares upon receiving a forced-sale notification from SEHK. Accordingly, the Client should ensure the Client fully understands the Mainland rules and regulations in relation to shareholding restrictions and disclosure obligations and follow such rules and regulations.

9. Short Swing Profit Rule

Under Mainland China laws, the "short swing profit rule" requires investors to return any profits made from purchases and sales in respect of China Connect securities of a Mainland China listed company if (a) the Client's shareholding in the Mainland China listed company exceeds the threshold prescribed by the relevant China Connect authority from time to time and (b) the corresponding sale transaction occurs within the six months after a purchase transaction, or vice versa.

10. Not Covered by Investor Compensation Fund

The Client should note that both SSE and SZSE trading under China Connect will not be covered by Hong Kong's Investor Compensation Fund. As Hong Kong investors are not carrying out SSE and/or SZSE trading through Mainland brokers, they are not protected by China Securities Investor Protection Fund on the Mainland.

11. Warnings

SSE and/or SZSE may request SEHK to require GHSL to issue warning statements (verbally or in writing) to clients, and not to extend SSE and/or SZSE trading service to certain clients.

12. Liability

SEHK, SEHK parent companies and subsidiaries, SSE, SSE subsidiary, SZSE and SZSE subsidiary and their respective directors, employees and agents shall not be responsible or held liable for any loss or damage directly or indirectly suffered by GHSL, its clients or any third parties arising from or in connection with SSE and/or SZSE trading or the CSC.

13. Margin Trading

The margin trading of China Connect shares is subject to eligibility requirements as determined by the SSE or the SZSE. The list of eligible shares and their margin ratios may change from time to time. Should the volume of margin trading in a specific share exceed the threshold, the SSE or SZSE will suspend further margin trading of the stock on the next trading day.

The Client acknowledges that he/she may be liable to regulatory investigations and any legal consequences if he/she are in breach of or fail to comply with the applicable rules, laws, or regulations of the SEHK, SSE, SZSE or any other China Connect Authority.

The Client acknowledges and accepts that GHSL may, in its absolute discretion, suspend, terminate or limit the Client's access to the China Connect through GHSL without advance notice to the Client, including but not limited to where requested by the SEHK, SSE, SZSE or any other China Connect Authority.

In the event that the SEHK, SSE, SZSE or any other China Connect Authority have reasonable cause to believe that the Client has failed to comply with or has breached any applicable rules, laws, or regulations, the Client shall, upon the request of GHSL provide such information (including translations into Chinese if so requested) as GHSL may reasonably request to enable GHSL to assist the SEHK, SSE, SZSE or any other China Connect Authority to assess whether there is any non-compliance or breach of the applicable rules, laws or regulations and/or extent of any non-compliance or breach.

Risk Disclosure

The Client has read the Product Information and Risk Disclosure Statement contained in Section IV of the Securities Client Agreement and understands the risks relevant to China Connect trading.

The Client should undertake transactions only if the Client understand the nature of China Connect trading and the extent of the Client's exposure to risk. The Client should carefully consider (and consult independent advisers where necessary) whether trading is appropriate for the Client in light of the Client's experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances.

Note: The terms “BCAN” and “CID” used in this clause shall bear the meanings as defined in paragraph 5.6 of the Code of Conduct for Persons Licensed by or Registered with the Securities and Futures Commission.

Section IV Risk Disclosure Statement (Securities)

The following risks factors are non-exhaustive and are intended to highlight certain risks associated with investing in securities. These risk factors are not intended as a substitute for professional legal, tax or financial advice.

Risk of securities trading

The prices of securities fluctuate, sometimes dramatically. The price of a security may move up or down, and may become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling securities.

Risk of trading Growth Enterprise Market stocks

Growth Enterprise Market (“GEM”) stocks involve a high investment risk. In particular, companies may list on GEM with neither a track record of profitability nor any obligation to forecast future profitability. GEM stocks may be very volatile and illiquid.

The Client should make the decision to invest only after due and careful consideration. The greater risk profile and other characteristics of GEM mean that it is a market more suited to professional and other sophisticated investors.

Current information on GEM stocks may only be found on the internet website operated by The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited. GEM Companies are usually not required to issue paid announcements in gazetted newspapers.

The Client should seek independent professional advice if the Client is uncertain of or have not understood any aspect of this risk disclosure statement or the nature and risks involved in trading of GEM stocks.

Risks Involved in Trading Callable Bull / Bear Contracts (“CBBC”)

Mandatory Call

CBBC are not suitable for all types of investors and investors should consider their risk appetite prior to trading. In any case, one should not trade in CBBC unless he / she understands the nature of the product and is prepared to lose the total amount invested since a CBBC will be called by the issuer when the price of the underlying asset hits the Call Price and trading in that CBBC will expire early. Payoff for Category N CBBC will be zero when they expire early. When Category R CBBC expire early the holder may receive a small amount of Residual Value payment, but there may be no Residual Value payment in adverse situations. Brokers may charge their clients a service fee for the collection of the Residual Value payment from the respective issuers.

In general, the larger the buffer between the Call Price and the Spot Price of the underlying asset, the lower the probability of the CBBC being called since the underlying asset of that CBBC would have to experience a larger movement in the price before the CBBC will be called. However at the same time, the larger the buffer, the lower the leverage effect will be. Once the CBBC is called, even though the underlying asset may bounce back in the right direction, the CBBC which has been called will not be revived and investors will not be able to profit from the bounce-back.

Besides, the Mandatory Call Event (“MCE”) of a CBBC with overseas assets as underlying may be triggered outside the Exchange’s trading hours.

Gearing Effects

Since a CBBC is a leveraged product, the percentage change in the price of a CBBC is greater compared with that of the underlying asset. Investors may suffer higher losses in percentage terms if they expect the price of the underlying asset to move one way but it moves in the opposite direction.

Limited Life

A CBBC has a limited life, as denoted by the fixed expiry date, with a lifespan of 3 months to 5 years. The life of a CBBC may be shorter if called before the fixed expiry date. The price of a CBBC fluctuates with the changes in the price of the underlying asset from time to time and may become worthless after expiry and in certain cases, even before the normal expiry if the CBBC has been called early.

Movement with Underlying Asset

Although the price of a CBBC tends to follow closely the price of its underlying asset, but in some situations it may not (i.e. delta may not always be close to one). Prices of CBBC are affected by a number of factors, including its own demand and supply, funding costs and time to expiry. Moreover, the delta for a particular CBBC may not always be close to one, in particular when the price of the underlying asset is close to the Call Price.

Liquidity

Although CBBC have liquidity providers, there is no guarantee that investors will be able to buy / sell CBBC at their target prices any time they wish.

Funding Costs

The issue price of a CBBC includes funding costs and issuers will specify the formula for calculating the funding costs of their CBBC at launch in the listing documents. However if a CBBC is called, the CBBC holders (investors) will lose the funding cost for the full period since the funding cost is built into the CBBC price upfront at launch even though with the MCE, the actual period of funding for the CBBC turns out to be shorter. In any case, investors should note that the funding costs of a CBBC after launch may vary during its life and the Liquidity Provider is not obliged to provide a quote for the CBBC based on the theoretical calculation of the funding costs for that CBBC at launch.

Trading of CBBC Close to Call Price

When the underlying asset is trading close to the Call Price, the price of a CBBC may be more volatile with wider spreads and uncertain liquidity. CBBC may be called at any time and trading will terminate as a result.

However, the trade inputted by the investor may still be executed and confirmed by the investors after the MCE since there may be some time lapse between the MCE time and suspension of the CBBC trading. Any trades executed after the MCE (i.e. Post MCE Trades) will not be recognized and will be cancelled. Therefore, investors should be aware of the risk and ought to apply special caution when the CBBC is trading close to the Call Price.

Issuers will announce the exact call time within 1 hour after the trigger of MCE, and HKEx will also send the list of Post MCE Trades to the relevant Exchange Participants (brokers) who in turn will inform their clients accordingly. For avoidance of doubt on whether their trades have been cancelled (i.e. whether they are Post MCE Trades), the investors may check with their brokers.

CBBC with Overseas underlying Assets

Investors trading CBBC with overseas underlying assets are exposed to an exchange rate risk as the price and cash settlement amount of the CBBC are converted from a foreign currency into Hong Kong dollars. Exchange rates between currencies are determined by forces of supply and demand in the foreign exchange markets which are affected by various factors.

Besides, CBBC issued on overseas underlying assets may be called outside the Exchange's trading hours. In such case, the CBBC will be terminated from trading on the Exchange in the next trading session or soon after the issuer has notified the Exchange about the occurrence of the MCE. There will be no automatic suspension of the CBBC by AMS/3. For Category R CBBC, valuation of the residual value will be determined on the valuation day according to the terms in the listing documents

Risks Involved In Trading Derivative Warrants

Derivative warrant trading involves high risks and is not suitable for every investor. Investors should understand and consider the following risks before trading in derivative warrants.

Issuer Risk

Derivative warrant holders are unsecured creditors of an issuer and have no preferential claim to any assets an issuer may hold. Therefore, investors are exposed to credit risk in respect of the issuer.

Gearing Risk

Although derivative warrants may cost a fraction of the price of the underlying assets, a derivative warrant may change in value more or less rapidly than the underlying asset. In the worst case the value of the derivative warrants falls to zero and holders lose their entire purchase price.

Limited Life

Unlike stocks, derivative warrants have an expiry date and therefore a limited life. Unless the derivative warrants are in-the-money, they become worthless at expiration.

Time Decay

One should be aware that other factors being equal the value of derivative warrants will decrease over time. Therefore, derivative warrants should never be viewed as products that are bought and held as long term investments.

Volatility

Other factors being equal an increase in the volatility of the underlying asset should lead to a higher warrant price and a decrease in volatility lead to a lower derivative warrant price.

Market Forces

In addition to the basic factors that determine the theoretical price of a derivative warrant, derivative warrant prices are also affected by all other prevailing market forces including the demand for and supply of the derivative warrants. Supply and demand forces may be greatest when a derivative warrant issue is almost sold out and when issuers make further issues of an existing derivative warrant issue.

Specific Risks Relating to Securities Trading Through Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect

Quotas Used Up

When the respective aggregate quota balance for Northbound and Southbound trading is less than the daily quota, the corresponding buy orders will be suspended on the next trading day (sell orders will still be accepted) until the aggregate quota balance returns to the daily quota level. Once the daily quota is used up, acceptance of the corresponding buy orders will also be immediately suspended and no further buy orders will be accepted for the remainder of the day. Buy orders which have been accepted will not be affected by the using up of the daily quota, while sell orders will be continued to be accepted. Depending on the situation of aggregate quota balance, buying transactions will be resumed on the following trading day.

Difference in Trading Day and Trading Hours

The Client should note that, due to differences in public holidays between Hong Kong and Mainland China or other reasons such as bad weather conditions, there may be differences in trading days and trading hours in the two markets. Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect will only operate on days when both markets are open for trading and when banks in both markets are open on the corresponding settlement days. Therefore, it is possible that there are occasions when it is a normal trading day for the Mainland market but Hong Kong investors cannot trade A-shares. The Client should take note of the days and the hours which Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect is open for business and decide according to his own risk tolerance capability whether or not to take on the risk of price fluctuations in A-shares during the time when Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect is not trading.

The Recalling of Eligible Stocks and Trading Restrictions

A stock which is on the list of eligible stocks for trading via Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect may be recalled from the list for various reasons and, in such event, the stock can only be sold but cannot be bought. This may affect the investment portfolio or strategies of the Client. The Client should therefore pay close attention to the list of eligible stocks as provided and updated from time to time by China Stock Exchange (“SSE”) and Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited (“HKEx”).

Under the following circumstances, purchase of A shares via Northbound trading will be suspended temporarily (but sale is permitted): (i) the A-shares cease to be constituent stocks of the relevant indices; (ii) the A-shares are put under “risk alert”; and/or (iii) the corresponding H shares of the A-shares cease to be traded on SEHK. The Client should also note that such A-shares may be subject to the restriction of price fluctuation limits.

Transaction Costs

In addition to paying trading fees and stamp duties in connection with trading of A-shares, the Client carrying out Northbound trading via Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect should also take note of any new portfolio fees, dividend tax and tax concerned with income arising from stock transfers, which may be levied by the relevant authorities.

Mainland China's Laws and Regulations, Foreign Shareholding Restrictions and Disclosure Obligations

Under Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect, A-share listed companies and trading thereof are subject to the laws and regulations and disclosure obligations of the A-share market. Any changes in relevant laws or regulations may affect share prices. The Client should also take note of the foreign shareholding restrictions and disclosure obligations applicable to A-shares. The Client may be subject to restrictions on trading and retention of proceeds as a result of his interests and shareholdings in A-shares. The Client himself is responsible for compliance with the requirements of all relevant notifications, reports and disclosure of interests.

Under the current Mainland rules, when an investor holds up to 5% of the shares of a company listed on SSE, the investor is required to disclose his interest within three (3) working days during which he cannot trade the shares of that company. The investor is also required to disclose any change in his shareholding and comply with related trading restrictions in accordance with the Mainland laws.

According to existing Mainland practices, Hong Kong and overseas investors as beneficial owners of A-shares traded via Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect cannot appoint proxies to attend shareholders' meetings on their behalf.

Currency Risks

Northbound investments via Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect will be traded and settled in Renminbi. If the Client invests in A-shares with a local currency other than RMB, the Client will be exposed to a currency risk due to the need for the conversion of the local currency into RMB. During the conversion, the Client will also incur currency conversion costs. Even if the price of the RMB asset remains unchanged, the Client will still incur an exchange loss if RMB depreciates during the process of currency conversion.

If the Client invests in A-shares without converting the local currency which he holds, into RMB and this results in a RMB debit balance of his account, GHSL will charge debit interest on that outstanding balance. (Please refer to the notice on GHSL's website for information of the debit interest rate).

The above summary only covers part of the risks related to Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect and any above-mentioned laws, rules and regulations are subject to change from time to time. The Client should visit the website of HKEx for updates and details for Shanghai-Hong Kong/Shenzhen-Hong Kong Stock Connect.

If the aforesaid provisions are inconsistent with the rules and regulations of HKEx, SZSE and SSE, the rules and regulation of HKEx, SZSE and SSE shall prevail.

Risks of client assets received or held outside Hong Kong

Client assets received or held by the licensed or registered person outside Hong Kong are subject to the applicable laws and regulations of the relevant overseas jurisdiction which may be different from the Securities and Futures Ordinance (Cap.571) and the rules made thereunder. Consequently, such client assets may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on client assets received or held in Hong Kong.

Risk of providing an authority to repledge the Client's securities collateral etc.

There is risk if the Client provides the licensed or registered person with an authority that allows it to apply the Client's securities or securities collateral pursuant to a securities borrowing and lending agreement, repledge the Client's securities collateral for financial accommodation or deposit the Client's securities collateral as collateral for the discharge and satisfaction of its settlement obligations and liabilities.

If the Client's securities or securities collateral are received or held by the licensed or registered person in Hong Kong, the above arrangement is allowed only if the Client consents in writing. Moreover, unless the Client is a professional investor, GHSL's authority must specify the period for which it is current and be limited to not more than twelve (12) months. If the Client is a professional investor, these restrictions do not apply.

Additionally, the Client's authority may be deemed to be renewed (i.e. without the Client's written consent) if the licensed or registered person issues the Client a reminder at least fourteen (14) days prior to the expiry of the authority, and the Client does not object to such deemed renewal before the expiry date of the Client's then existing authority.

The Client is not required by any law to sign these authorities. But an authority may be required by licensed or registered persons, for example, to facilitate margin lending to the Client or to allow the Client's securities or securities collateral to be lent to or deposited as collateral with third parties. The licensed or registered person should explain to the Client the purposes for which one of these authorities is to be used.

If the Client signs one of these authorities and the Client's securities or securities collateral are lent to or deposited with third parties, those third parties will have a lien or charge on the Client's securities or securities collateral. Although the licensed or registered person is responsible to the Client for securities or securities collateral lent or deposited under the Client's authority, a default by it could result in the loss of the Client's securities or securities collateral.

A cash account not involving securities borrowing and lending is available from most licensed or registered persons. If the Client does not require margin facilities or do not wish the Client's securities or securities collateral to be lent or pledged, do not sign the above authorities and ask to open this type of cash account.

Risk of providing an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties

If the Client provides the licensed or registered person with an authority to hold mail or to direct mail to third parties, it is important for the Client to promptly collect in person all contract notes and statements of the Client's account and review them in detail to ensure that any anomalies or mistakes can be detected in a timely fashion.

Notes for licensed or registered persons

The licensed or registered person should confirm with the Client at least on an annual basis whether that Client wishes to revoke the authority. For the avoidance of doubt, it will be acceptable for the licensed or registered person to send a notification to the Client before the expiry date of the authority and inform the Client that it is automatically renewed unless the Client specifically revokes it in writing before the expiry date.

Risk of margin trading

The risk of loss in financing a transaction by deposit of collateral is significant. The Client may sustain losses in excess of the Client's cash and any other assets deposited as collateral with the licensed or registered person. Market conditions may make it impossible to execute contingent orders, such as "stop-loss" or "stop-limit" orders. The Client may be called upon at short notice to make additional margin deposits or interest payments. If the required margin deposits or interest payments are not made within the prescribed time, the Client's collateral may be liquidated without the Client's consent. Moreover, the Client will remain liable for any resulting deficit in the Client's account and interest charged on the Client's account. The Client should therefore carefully consider whether such a financing arrangement is suitable in light of the Client's own financial position and investment objectives.

Risk of trading Nasdaq-Amex securities at The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited

The securities under the Nasdaq-Amex Pilot Program ("PP") are aimed at sophisticated investors. The Client should consult the licensed or registered person and become familiarised with the PP before trading in the PP securities. The Client should be aware that the PP securities are not regulated as a primary or secondary listing on the Main Board or the Growth Enterprise Market of The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited.

Deposited cash and property

The Client should familiarise himself with the protections given to money or other property the Client deposits for domestic and foreign transactions, particularly in the event of a firm insolvency or bankruptcy. The extent to which the Client may recover the Client's money or property may be governed by specific legislation or local rules. In some jurisdictions, property which had been specifically identifiable as the Client's own will be pro-rated in the same manner as cash for purposes of distribution in the event of a shortfall.

Commission and other charges

Before the Client begins to trade, the Client should obtain a clear explanation of all commission, fees and other charges for which the Client will be liable. These charges will affect the Client's net profit (if any) or increase the Client's loss.

Transactions in other jurisdictions

Transactions on markets in other jurisdictions, including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose the Client to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation which may offer different or diminished investor protection. Before the Client trades, the Client should enquire about any rules relevant to the Client's particular transactions. The Client's local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where the Client's transactions have been effected. The Client should ask the firm with which the Client deals for details about the types of redress available in both the Client's home jurisdiction and other relevant jurisdictions before the Client starts to trade.

Currency risks

The profit or loss in transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts (whether they are traded in the Client's own or another jurisdiction) will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency.

Trading facilities

Electronic trading facilities are supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. The Client's ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the system provider, the market, the clearing house and/or participant firms. Such limits may vary: the Client should ask the firm with which the Client deals for details in this respect.

Electronic trading

Trading on an electronic trading system may differ from trading on other electronic trading systems. If the Client undertakes transactions on an electronic trading system, the Client will be exposed to risks associated with the system including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any system failure may be that the Client's order is either not executed according to the Client's instructions or is not executed at all.

Off-exchange transactions

In some jurisdictions, and only then in restricted circumstances, firms are permitted to effect off-exchange transactions. The firm with which the Client deals may be acting as the Client's counterparty to the transaction. It may be difficult or impossible to liquidate an existing position, to assess the value, to determine a fair price or to assess the exposure to risk. For these reasons, these transactions may involve increased risks. Off-exchange transactions may be less regulated or subject to a separate regulatory regime. Before the Client undertakes such transactions, the Client should familiarize himself with applicable rules and attendant risks.

SECTION V

ADDITIONAL RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT FOR FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Specific Risk of Trading Exchange Traded Funds (“ETFs”)

Market risk: ETFs are typically designed to track the performance of certain indices, market sectors, or groups of assets such as stocks, bonds, or commodities. ETF managers may use different strategies to achieve this goal, but in general they do not have the discretion to take defensive positions in declining markets. Investors must be prepared to bear the risk of loss and volatility associated with the underlying index/assets.

Tracking errors: Tracking errors refer to the disparity in performance between an ETF and its underlying index/assets. Tracking errors can arise due to factors such as the impact of transaction fees and expenses incurred to the ETF, changes in composition of the underlying index/assets, and the ETF manager’s replication strategy. (The common replication strategies include full replication/representative sampling and synthetic replication.)

Trading at discount or premium: An ETF may be traded at a discount or premium to its Net Asset Value (NAV). This price discrepancy is caused by supply and demand factors, and may be particularly likely to emerge during periods of high market volatility and uncertainty. This phenomenon may also be observed for ETFs tracking specific markets or sectors that are subject to direct investment restrictions.

Foreign exchange risk: Investors trading ETFs with underlying assets not denominated in Hong Kong dollars are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the ETF price.

Liquidity risk: Securities Market Makers (SMMs) are Exchange Participants that provide liquidity to facilitate trading in ETFs. Although most ETFs are supported by one or more SMMs, there is no assurance that active trading will be maintained. In the event that the SMMs default or cease to fulfill their role, investors may not be able to buy or sell the product.

Risk of Trading Exchange Traded Notes (ETNs)

ETN is a type of unsecured, unsubordinated debt security issued by an underwriting bank, designed to provide investors access to the returns of various market benchmarks. The returns of ETNs are usually linked to the performance of a market benchmark or strategy, minus applicable fees. Similar to other debt securities, ETNs have a maturity date and are backed only by the credit of the issuer.

The Client can buy and sell the ETNs on the exchange or receive a cash payment at the scheduled maturity or may early redeem the ETNs directly with the issuer based on the performance of the underlying index less applicable fees, with redemption restrictions, such as the minimum number of ETNs for early redemption, may apply.

There is no guarantee that investors will receive at maturity, or upon an earlier repurchase, investors’ initial investment back or any return on that investment. Significant adverse monthly performances for investors’ ETNs may not be offset by any beneficial monthly performances. The issuer of ETNs may have the right to redeem the ETNs at the repurchase value at any time. If at any time the repurchase value of the ETNs is zero, investors’ investment will expire worthless. ETNs may not be liquid and there is no guarantee that the Client will be able to liquidate the Client’s position whenever the Client wishes.

Although both ETFs and ETNs are linked to the return of a benchmark index, ETNs as debt securities do not actually own any assets they are tracking, but just a promise from the issuer to pay investors the theoretical allocation of the return reflected in the benchmark index. It provides limited portfolio diversification with concentrated exposure to a specific index and the index components. In the event that the ETN issuer defaults, the potential maximum loss could be 100% of the investment amount and no return may be received, given ETN is considered as an unsecured debt instrument.

The value of the ETN may drop despite no change in the underlying index, instead due to a downgrade in the issuer’s credit rating. Therefore, by buying ETNs, investors get direct exposure to the credit risk of the issuer and would only have an unsecured bankruptcy claim if the issuer declares bankruptcy. The principal amount is subject to the periodic application of investor fees or any applicable fees that can adversely affect returns. Where the Client trades ETNs with underlying assets not denominated in local currencies investors are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the ETN price.

Investors may have leveraged exposure to the underlying index, depending on the product feature. The value of ETNs can change rapidly according to the gearing ratio relative to the underlying assets. The Client should be aware that the value of an ETN may fall to zero resulting in a total loss of the initial investment.

Leveraged & Inverse (“L&I”) Products Key risks

Investment risk:

Trading L&I Products involves investment risk and are not intended for all investors. There is no guarantee of repaying the principal amount.

Volatility risk:

Prices of L&I Products may be more volatile than conventional exchange traded funds (ETFs) because of using leverage and the rebalancing activities.

Unlike conventional ETFs:

L&I Products are different from conventional ETFs. They do not share the same characteristics and risks as conventional ETFs.

Long-term holding risk:

L&I Products are not intended for holding longer than the rebalancing interval, typically one day. Daily rebalancing and the compounding effect will make the L&I Product’s performance over a period longer than one day deviate in amount and possibly direction from the leveraged/inverse performance of the underlying index over the same period. The deviation becomes more pronounced in a volatile market.

As a result of daily rebalancing, the underlying index’s volatility and the effects of compounding of each day’s return over time, it is possible that the leveraged product will lose money over time while the underlying index increases or is flat. Likewise, it is possible that the inverse product will lose money over time while the underlying index decreases or is flat.

Risk of rebalancing activities:

There is no assurance that L&I Products can rebalance their portfolios on a daily basis to achieve their investment objectives. Market disruption, regulatory restrictions or extreme market volatility may adversely affect the rebalancing activities.

Liquidity risk:

Rebalancing typically takes place near the end of a trading day (shortly before the close of the underlying market) to minimize tracking difference. The short interval of rebalancing may expose L&I Products more to market volatility and higher liquidity risk.

Intraday investment risk:

Leverage factor of L&I Products may change during a trading day when the market moves but it will not be rebalanced until day end. The L&I Product’s return during a trading day may be greater or less than the leveraged/opposite return of the underlying index.

Portfolio turnover risk:

Daily rebalancing causes a higher levels of portfolio transaction when compared to conventional ETFs, and thus increases brokerage and other transaction costs.

Correlation risk:

Fees, expenses, transactions cost as well as costs of using financial derivatives may reduce the correlation between the performance of the L&I Product and the leveraged/inverse performance of the underlying index on a daily basis.

Termination risk:

L&I Products must be terminated when all the market makers resign. Termination of the L&I Product should take place at about the same time when the resignation of the last market maker becomes effective.

Leverage risk (for leveraged products only):

The use of leverage will magnify both gains and losses of leveraged products resulting from changes in the underlying index or, where the underlying index is denominated in a currency other than the leveraged product's base currency, from fluctuations in exchange rates.

Unconventional return pattern (for inverse products only):

Inverse products aim to deliver the opposite of the daily return of the underlying index. If the value of the underlying index increases for extended periods, or where the exchange rate of the underlying index denominated in a currency other than the inverse product's base currency rises for an extended period, inverse products can lose most or all of their value.

Inverse products vs short selling (for inverse products only):

Investing in inverse products is different from taking a short position. Because of rebalancing, the performance of inverse products may deviate from a short position in particular in a volatile market with frequent directional swings.

General Major Risks associated with Exchange-traded Derivative Products (including but not limited to the following)

Issuer default risk

In the event that an exchange-traded derivative product issuer becomes insolvent and defaults on their issued products, investors will be considered as unsecured creditors and will have no preferential claims to any assets held by the issuer. Investors should therefore pay close attention to the financial strength and credit worthiness of exchange-traded derivative product issuers. Since exchange-traded derivative products are not asset backed, in the event of issuer bankruptcy, investor can lose their entire investment.

Gearing risk

Exchange-traded derivative products such as derivative warrants and callable bull/bear contracts are leveraged and can change in value rapidly according to the gearing ratio relative to the underlying assets. Investors should be aware that the value of an exchange-traded derivative product may fall to zero resulting in a total loss of the initial investment.

Limited Life

Most of the exchange-traded derivative product issuer has an expiry date after which the products may become worthless. Investors should be aware of the expiry time horizon and choose a product with an appropriate lifespan for their trading strategy.

Extraordinary price movements

The price of an exchange-traded derivative product may not match its theoretical price due to outside influences such as market supply and demand factors. As a result, actual traded prices can be higher or lower than the theoretical price.

Risk relating to Collective Investment Schemes

Collective Investment Scheme may invest extensively (up to 100%) in financial derivative instruments, fixed income securities and/or structured products (including, but not limited to credit default swaps, sub-investment grade debt, mortgage-backed securities and other asset-backed securities) and be subject to various risks (including but not limited to counterparty risk, liquidity risk, credit risk and market risk). Collective Investment Scheme may use trading strategies that use financial derivative instruments which may be unsuccessful due to a number of reasons; including, but not limited to volatile market conditions, imperfect correlation between the movements in securities on which derivatives are based, lack of liquidity within markets and counterparty default risk.

Nature of Rights Issue

A rights issue is a one-time offering of shares in a company to existing shareholders, allowing them an opportunity to maintain their proportional ownership without being diluted by buying additional new shares at a discounted price on a stated future date. Until the date at which the new shares can be purchased, investors may trade the rights to the market the same way they would trade ordinary shares. If the investors do not exercise their rights within the specified period of time, the rights will expire. If the investors do not intend to exercise their rights, they can sell them on the open market. Once exercised, the rights cannot be used again.

Risks associated with Rights Issue

It is easy to be enticed by shares offered at a discount, but the Client should not assume that the Client is getting a bargain. An informed decision should be made by looking at the rationale behind the fund raising exercise.

A company may use a rights issue to cover debt, especially when they are unable to borrow money from other sources. The Client should be concerned with whether or not the management are addressing any underlying problems.

If the Client decides not to take up the rights the Client's overall shareholding in GHSL will be diluted as a result of the increased number of shares in issue.

If the Client does not participate in the rights issue within the specified time-frame the Clients' nil-paid rights will lapse. GHSL will sell these entitlements and distribute any net proceeds after deduction of the offer price and costs. The amount of lapsed proceeds, if any, will not be known until the offer has closed. Lapsed proceeds are not guaranteed.

Investments and income arising from them can fall in value and the Client may get back less than the Client originally invested.

Risk of Trading Equity-linked Instrument (“ELI”)

Where the Client instructs GHSL to use the Account for trading equity-linked instrument, the Client acknowledges that ELIs are not principal protected and the Client may suffer a loss if the price(s) of the reference asset(s) of an ELI go against the Client's view. In extreme cases, the Client could lose the Client's entire investment. The risk of loss may be substantial in certain circumstances and should not deal in them unless the Client understands the nature of the transactions entering into and the extent of the Client's exposure to risk. The Client should carefully consider whether the transactions are suitable in the light of the Client's circumstances and financial position.

The Client understands that while most ELIs generally higher than the interest on an ordinary time deposit or traditional bonds, the potential gain on the Client's ELI may be capped at a predetermined level specified by the issuer. During the investment period, the Client has no rights in the reference asset(s). Changes in the market prices of such reference asset(s) may not lead to a corresponding change in the market value and/or potential payout of the ELI.

The Client is fully aware that an investment in ELI exposes the Client to equity risk. The Client is exposed to price movements in the underlying security and the stock market, the impact of dividends and corporate actions and counterparty risks. The Client accepts the legal obligation to take the underlying instrument at the pre-agreed conversion price instead of receiving the principal of the ELI, if the price of the underlying instrument falls below the conversion price. The Client will therefore receive an instrument that has fallen in value to the extent that it is less than the Client's original investment, and might even lose the entire principal or deposit if the underlying instrument becomes worthless. ELIs are not secured on any assets or collateral.

The Client is fully aware that when the Client purchases an ELI, the Client relies on the credit-worthiness of the issuer. In case of default or insolvency of the issuer, the Client will have to rely on the Client's distributor to take action on the Client's behalf to claim as an unsecured creditor of the issuer regardless of the performance of the reference asset(s). Issuers may provide limited market making arrangement for their ELIs. However, if the Client tries to terminate an ELI before maturity under the market making arrangement provided by the issuer, the Client may receive an amount which is substantially less than the Client's original investment amount. Equity-linked instrument may be “non-transferable” and it may be impossible for the Client to close out or liquidate them. Issuer of an ELI may also play different roles, such as the arranger, the market agent and the calculation agent of the ELI. Conflicts of interest may arise from the different roles played by the issuer, its subsidiaries and affiliates in connection with the ELI. Investors should note that any dividend payment on the underlying security may affect its price and the payback of the ELI at expiry due to ex-dividend pricing. Investors should also note that issuers may make adjustments to the ELI due to corporate actions on the underlying security.

Potential yield Investors should consult their brokers on fees and charges related to the purchase and sale of ELI and payment / delivery at expiry. The potential yields disseminated by HKEx have not taken fees and charges into consideration.

Risk Disclosure Statement for Investment Funds:

Investment involves risks. The prices of units/shares of unit trusts or mutual funds fluctuate, sometimes dramatically and may become valueless. Investor(s) may not get back the amount they have invested. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling unit trusts or mutual funds. Past performance is no guide to its future performance.

Investor(s) should read the terms and conditions contained in the relevant offering documents and in particular the investment policies and the risk factors and latest financial results information carefully and are advised to seek independent professional advice before making any investment decision.

Investor(s) should ensure they fully understand the risks associated with unit trusts or mutual funds and should also consider their own investment objective and risk tolerance level.

Risk Disclosure of bonds, high yield bonds and high yield bond funds

Holders of bonds, including plain-vanilla bonds, are subject to various risks, including but not limited to:

Credit risk - bonds are subject to the risk of the issuer defaulting on its obligations. It should also be noted that credit ratings assigned by credit rating agencies do not guarantee the creditworthiness of the issuer;

Liquidity risk - some bonds may not have active secondary markets and it would be difficult or impossible for investors to sell the bond before its maturity; and

Interest rate risk – bonds are more susceptible to fluctuations in interest rates and generally prices of bonds will fall when interest rates rise.

Key risks of investing in high-yield bonds

In addition to the generic risks listed above, investments in high-yield bonds are subject to risks such as:

Higher credit risk - since they are typically rated below investment grade or are unrated and as such are often subject to a higher risk of issuer default;

Vulnerability to economic cycles - during economic downturns such bonds typically fall more in value than investment grade bonds as (i) investors become more risk averse and (ii) default risk rises.

Bonds with special features

Furthermore, some bonds may contain special features and risks that warrant special attention. These include bonds:

- That are perpetual in nature and interest pay-out depends on the viability of the issuer in the very long term;
- That have subordinated ranking and in case of liquidation of the issuer, investors can only get back the principal after other senior creditors are paid;
- That are callable and investors face reinvestment risk when the issuer exercises its right to redeem the bond before it matures;
- That have variable and/or deferral of interest payment terms and investors would face uncertainty over the amount and time of the interest payments to be received;
- That have extendable maturity dates and investors would not have a definite schedule of principal repayment;
- That are convertible or exchangeable in nature and investors are subject to both equity and bond investment risk; and/or
- That have contingent write down or loss absorption feature and the bond may be written-off fully or partially or converted to common stock on the occurrence of a trigger event.

Funds investing in high-yield bonds

Intermediaries should also pay particular attention to those funds that invest primarily in high-yield bonds as (i) they will be subject to the risks associated with investments in bonds as described above; and (ii) the net asset value of a fund that invests in high-yield bonds may decline or be negatively affected if there is a default of any of the high yield bonds that it invests in or if interest rates change. The special features and risks of high-yield bond funds may also include the following:

Capital growth risk - some high-yield bond funds may have fees and/ or dividends paid out of capital. As a result, the capital that the fund has available for investment in the future and capital growth may be reduced;

Dividend distributions - some high-yield bond funds may not distribute dividends, but instead reinvest the dividends into the fund or alternatively, the investment manager may have discretion on whether or not to make any distribution out of income and/or capital of the fund. Also, a high distribution yield does not imply a positive or high return on the total investment; and

Other key risks that may relate to the relevant fund including concentration of investments in particular types of specialized debt or a specific geographical region or sovereign securities.
